

Speaker

Keng-Li Lan, M.D., Ph.D.      藍耿立 醫師

Associate Professor, Institute of Traditional Medicine,
School of Medicine, National Yang-Ming University;
Division of Radiation Oncology, Department of Oncology,
Taipei Veterans General Hospital

Tumor Localized Immunotherapy

Keng-Li Lan is an associate professor at the institute of traditional medicine, school of medicine of National Yang-Ming University. He also holds the position of attending physician at the division of Radiation Oncology in the Department of Oncology of Taipei Veterans General Hospital. Dr. Lan obtained his M.D. degree from National Yang-Ming University, and Ph.D. degree in pharmacology from the University of Michigan. His previous experience includes post-doctoral training and adjunct instructor at the department of Molecular and Cellular Biology at MD Anderson Cancer Center in Texas. Dr. Lan has devoted his career mainly to the treatment of malignancy of the gastro-intestinal tract and lung cancer. His research interest involves cancer related signaling pathways, angiogenesis, anticancer immunotherapy, and new drug development.